Reds Down Plane Over Open Sea

U.S. Denounces Red Attempt To Create Incident

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States accused the Soviet Union Tuesday of recklessly shooting down an American plane well outside Soviet territory and solemnly warned of "most serious consequences" if there is repetition of such an act.

A note delivered in Moscow rejected a Soviet charge that an RB47 jet plane of the U.S. Air Force had violated Soviet air space before being shot down. The note declared the reconnaissance bomber was never closer than 30 miles to the Soviet coast.

The official message demanded immediate release of two surviving members of the plane's crew of six and called for return of the body of Capt. Willard G. Palm, commander of the aircraft. It also reserved the right to demand full compensation from the U.S.S.R. for shooting down the airplane.

Khrushchev Claims Two Admit Spying

Deliberate Attack
Delivery of the diplomatic warning came some hours after White House press secretary James C. Hagerty on President Eisenhower's behalf characterized destruction of the aircraft as "a deliberate and reckless attempt to create an international incident."

The United States told the Soviet government that the plane was "on an entirely legitimate mission over international waters."

The mission was described as one of a series of "electromagnetic research flight well known to the Soviet government to have taken place over a period of more than 10 years."

Thus Washington rejected Moscow's charge in the protest note of Monday that the plane was on an espionage mission, heading in the direction of the Soviet port of Archangel.

The aircraft was lost July 1 in the Arctic, and the region of the Kol Peninsula where Norway and Moscow have a common border.

Rejects Protest
In its formal note the United States also:

1. Demanded that a representative of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow be allowed to see without delay the two U.S. Air Force officers, Lt. John R. McKone and F. B. Olmstead.

2. Rejected Soviet protests against the plane flight and denied "the cynical failure" of the Soviet government to disclose for 11 days what it knew of the plane's fate.

3. Offered to undertake in cooperation with the Soviet government and perhaps others a thorough search for the downed airplane and the three missing members of its crew. This appeared to be a challenge to the Soviets to join in finding out just where the aircraft went down.

4. Scorned the Soviet claim that the RB47 flight of July 1 and the U2 spy plane incident of May 1 were linked in a common pattern of espionage, saying, "these flights were, as must be known to the Soviet government, entirely different in character."

5. Accused the U.S.S.R. of "willful misinterpretation and misstatement of fact" in its protest note of Monday.

The message said Soviet planes "wantonly attacked the American airplane over international waters" on Moscow's instructions and ended on this note of warning: "It should be clear to the Soviet government that a repetition of acts of this nature cannot fail to have the most serious consequences, responsibility for which would rest upon the Soviet government alone."

Moscow also sent notes to Britain and Norway accusing them of complicity in permitting their bases to be used by U.S. reconnaissance craft.

In Commons Tuesday, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan declined to discuss the matter in detail. He said, however, the British government has had good relations with the United States in carrying out agreements covering American bases. He added that some modifications in the base operations may be made.

Plane Explodes Over Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An airplane exploded in flight Tuesday night over desolate Florida Everglades. The Coast Guard said at least two survivors, who apparently escaped by parachute, were picked up in the swampy, uninhabited area 25 miles southeast of Lake Okechobee.

First reports, unconfirmed, said the plane was a military aircraft. Civil and military authorities had no immediate word on a missing plane.

Washington Turns Down Congo Plea

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP)—The lusty, hopeful nation that emerged to replace Belgium's mid-African colonial empire 12 days ago, asked Tuesday for American and Belgian troops to keep the country together and end bloodshed.

The United States quickly rejected the Congo plea for troops unless they are part of a U.N. force. U. N. officials voiced doubts, noting that American or other big power troops in the Congo would be likely to complicate the situation.

The drastic plea for aid was made while President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba were out of the capital on a fruitless mission to restore order in Luluabourg and Elisabethville in two southeastern provinces.

Three Killed

A new incident, the killing of three Congolese soldiers by a Belgian aircraft, revived an explosive situation in Leopoldville. Luluabourg in Kasai Province was in complete disorder, with all its white residents trying to get out. At least two Europeans were killed while besieged in an office building by Congolese marksmen perched in trees.

A secession movement that started in Katanga Province was reported spreading in Kivu, the far eastern province north of Katanga. An Associated Press report from Bukavu, a Kivu city near the Ruanda-Urundi border, said discussions were taking place between Kivu Congolese and European representatives on the advisability of secession from Congo.

Premier Moise Tshombe of the rich hinterland Katanga Province, economic mainstay of the Congo because of its copper and uranium mines, proclaimed independence from the rest of the new nation Monday night.

But he was reported Tuesday to have had second thoughts. A communiqué said the provincial assembly and government are re-examining the situation with regard to Katanga's future.

Commie Tactics

But Tshombe was still refusing to recognize the authority of Congo Premier Lumumba, whom he accused of following disruptive Communist tactics.

European observers believed Tshombe backed down slightly because he realized his secession placed the Belgian government in the difficult position of choosing between Katanga and a unified Congo which it favors.

Belgian troops, at Tshombe's request, already have been in action in Katanga in an effort to restore order.

Everywhere in the Congo white residents were fleeing to the nearest border.

More than 200 Americans, mostly missionaries and their families, were reported waiting at Luluabourg and Aketi to be rescued from the threat of marauding Congolese soldiers who have rebelled against their Belgian officers. None of the Americans was reported molested however.

Reds Contend U.S. Monroe Policy Dead

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev denied Tuesday that the United States has any right to keep communism out of the Western Hemisphere. He claimed the Monroe Doctrine is dead.

At a news conference a correspondent asked Khrushchev if his support of Cuba's Fidel Castro is an attack on the doctrine—a cornerstone of U.S. policy for 137 years.

"The Monroe Doctrine has outlived its usefulness," Khrushchev retorted. "It has died a natural death."

"Sez You"

At President Eisenhower's Summer headquarters at Newport, R.I., White House press secretary James C. Hagerty was asked for comment on Khrushchev's contention that the Monroe Doctrine is dead.

"That's what he thinks," Hagerty scoffed.

"Can that be interpreted as meaning that the government of the United States is unimpressed?" a reporter asked at a news conference.

"Yes, sure," Hagerty replied. "A shorter version, using an American idiom, would be: 'Sez you?'"

History of Doctrine

President James Monroe in 1823 warned European powers that the United States barred foreign interference in Western Hemisphere affairs. The warning was directed particularly at Czarist Russia, which had been advancing claims to certain areas on the west coast of North America.

Recently President Eisenhower declared the United States would not permit international communism to dominate any government in the Western Hemisphere. To this, Khrushchev replied Tuesday:

"Who gave the United States the right to allow or disallow? What right has the United States to dispose of the destinies of any other nation?"

The Communists accuse the United States of colonial domination over Cuba, which has been independent since 1898.

Wasp To Assist In Evacuation

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Navy announced Tuesday the aircraft carrier Wasp is steaming toward the South Atlantic "and if the situation requires, she will continue on toward Africa to assist in evacuation of United States nationals from the Congo."

A spokesman at Atlantic Fleet Headquarters emphasized that this was purely a mission of mercy.

Dixie Delegates Protest Plank

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A fight, apparently fairly mild, broke out Tuesday night over a civil rights plank in the Democratic platform.

Delegates from 10 Southern states protested that the civil rights proposal went too far and that they are being subjected to a campaign of studied vilification.

Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina presented a proposal to strike the plank from the platform.

This came after a minority report by James H. Gray, chair-

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—By a roaring voice vote, the Democratic National Convention Tuesday night voted down a 10-state Southern attempt to kill the civil rights plank in the party platform.

By a voice vote, the delegates then voted to adopt the entire platform, although some observers felt the cries of "no" outnumbered the "yes" votes.

man of the Georgia delegation.

One of the most forceful speakers to address the convention, Gray drew cheers from southern delegates when he said:

"Increasingly, the loyalty of the people of the South to their party has been repaid with scolding and derision."

Gray was battling a plank which would pledge the party to use the full powers of the federal government to end racial discrimination in many fields.

In typical something-for-everybody fashion, the party platform ranged for 15,000 words over a broad spectrum of foreign and domestic issues.

Top items were civil rights at home and Communist aggression abroad.

Addressing itself to Soviet rulers it said: "We confidently accept your challenge to competition in every field of human endeavor."

On national defense, the platform pledged a recasting of this nation's military capacity "in order to provide forces and weapons of a diversity, balance, and mobility sufficient in quantity and quality to deter both limited and general aggression."

Pennsylvania Group Favors Stu For V.P.

By Richard Graves

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pennsylvania delegates to the Democratic National Convention Tuesday favored drafting Sen. Stuart Symington for vice president on a ticket headed by Sen. John F. Kennedy.

"The only sentiment I have heard in the delegation has been for Symington for vice president," said La. Gov. John Morgan Davis.

Earlier, Rep. H. G. Andrews, speaker of the House, also urged delegates to back Symington. However, the Missouri senator insists he is still in the running for the top spot.

The two Pennsylvania Democratic leaders based their statements on an assumption Kennedy would be nominated Wednesday for president.

Middle West

"We've got to have somebody from the Middle West," said Davis. A former Philadelphia judge, he is close to city chairman U. S. Rep. William Green Jr., a leading power in the delegation.

Green and Gov. David Lawrence, chairman of the 81-vote delegation, have maintained silence on vice presidential prospects on grounds "it is up to the candidate."

However, both are expected to urge support for Symington. Delegates cite two main reasons why they will seek Symington's candidacy:

1. They feel he projects a national image of authority in defense matters. Lawrence said earlier this year Symington "has mastered the overriding issue of our times, national defense."

2. They feel Symington's home state of Missouri identifies him geographically with both the South and the Midwest.

Leader's Choice

Former Gov. George M. Leader, who Monday addressed the state delegation caucus on behalf of Kennedy, Tuesday also urged support of Symington for the number two spot.

He said Symington has experience with national problems in addition to national defense.

"And the farm issue, I would say, is certainly the nation's greatest domestic issue," Leader contended.

Davis predicted that Symington would collect more than three-fourths of the state's votes on a first ballot for vice president.

Convention Schedule

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Here are the scheduled events for Wednesday's sessions of the Democratic National Convention:

Convenes 6 p.m.

Invocation by Dr. Max Nussbaum, rabbi, Temple Israel of Hollywood.

National Anthem.

Roll call of states for nominations for president.

Balloting on nominees.

Benediction by the Rev. Forrest C. Weir, executive director, Church Federation of Los Angeles.

National Anthem.

Adjournment.

Good Morning!

Kennedy's Vote Total Up To 736

CONVENTION HALL, Los Angeles (AP)—John F. Kennedy jauntily invaded Lyndon B. Johnson's Texas stronghold Tuesday, tossed off the best his leading rival could throw, and eased on toward a Democratic presidential nomination that is everything but official.

The Massachusetts and Texas senators met face to face in a downtown hotel, before an audience sardined into a pie-shaped ballroom and a national audience at the TV sets.

Minutes later, the 81-vote California delegation to the Democratic National Convention conferred 30 1/2 more votes on Kennedy. Johnson mustered 6 1/2.

Kennedy shot up to 736 certain, openly pledged first ballot votes as tabulated by The Associated Press. He was then only 25 short of the 761 required to clinch the nomination.

Voting Tonight

Nobody much doubted—Johnson was an avowed exception—that Kennedy would poll the rest from delegates getting panicky to ride with a winner. Then it will be a matter of formalities of a roll call when the convention gets around to candidate picking Wednesday night.

Here in a municipal sports arena, Democrats began their second session of the convention, a session devoted to another outpouring of oratory and to action on a new party platform.

There was a new look, too, to the presiding officers. The Democrats elected Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida as their permanent chairman.

Florida delegates grabbed up Confederate flags and paraded in the aisles in his honor.

But the din and enthusiasm was something else again a bit later.

Stevenson Cheered

Adlai E. Stevenson, a delegate and a presidential hopeful, arrived at the hall. Crowds nearly mobbed him. Police had to shoe-horn him through the door. A tremendous roar shook the arena.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the man who captured the party presidential nomination in 1952 and 1956 was ushered to the speaker's platform.

He voiced his gratitude for a moving welcome to the 1960 convention and added one observation:

"After getting in and out of the Biltmore Hotel and this hall, I know now whom you're going to nominate. It will be the last survivor."

The Johnson-Kennedy bout was at the Biltmore Hotel a couple of miles from the big arena.

Challenged Kennedy

It grew out of Kennedy's bid to every state—Texas included—to let him appear before its delegation. Johnson countered with a challenge to Kennedy to debate major issues facing the convention and country before a joint meeting of the Texas and Massachusetts delegations.

Neither man quite wanted to give in to terms of the other. They sparred for hours at long range, with telegrams and statements.

Finally, Johnson showed up in the ball room at the hour set for the Texas delegation to assemble, said he would be glad to let Kennedy come forward.

Kennedy showed up with six Massachusetts delegates.

Johnson led off with a glowing introduction. Kennedy acknowledged it with gratitude.

There wasn't any great debate, although it wasn't Johnson's fault. Kennedy just wasn't being goaded into any arguments. He simply turned aside all of Johnson's barbs with confident good humor.

At the end he all but invited Johnson to get out of the presidential contest and concentrate on being Senate leader.

Rivals Continue Fight

But Johnson and other opponents refused to leap out of the way of a Kennedy bandwagon that never has lost momentum.

Stevenson even picked off one more vote in the California caucus than Kennedy did. But Stevenson sentiment probably runs stronger here than in any other part of the country.

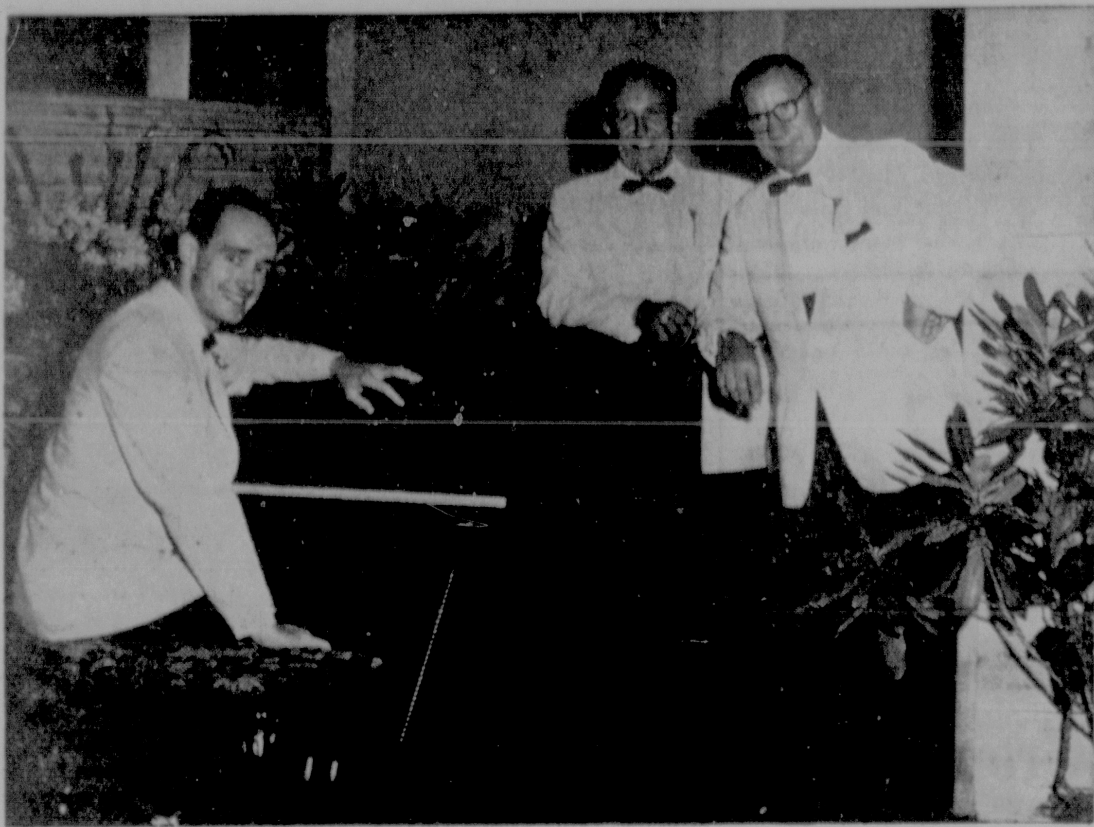

California supporters of Stevenson and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri had hurried into court in an attempt to fence Kennedy off from any of the state's 81 votes on the first ballot.

NEWFOUNDLAND—The names that will make the news—and the success of the 43rd annual Green-Dreher-Sterling Community Fair—have been announced by the association.

Directors, superintendents, committees, and cooperating organizations, without whom the fair would not succeed, have been named as follows:

Auto Hits Barricade; Man Injured

GRANT PARK, of RD. 1, Wilkes-Barre, was injured at 9 a.m. yesterday when he was hit by a barricade sent flying when it was hit by a passing car.

The driver of the car, C. O. Graver, 72, of Kunkletown RD. 2, was traveling south on Route 115 one mile north of Wind Gap when his car hit the barricade.

Park, a roadside worker, was struck by the barricade and suffered an injured hip.

Two Treated At Hospital After Crash

ALLAN MCFALL, of 217 Market St., Bangor, and Paul LaBar, Jr., of Blairtown, N.J., were released from Monroe County General Hospital late yesterday morning several hours after being involved in a head-on automobile collision during a dense fog.

The youths were travelling in opposite directions when the accident happened on the East Bangor-Mt. Bethel Highway at 6:30 a.m. The two were treated at the hospital and later were released.

According to Chief of Police Jesse Felker, of Upper Mt. Bethel Twp., McFall ran into the path of the LaBar car as he (McFall) attempted to avoid an animal that had darted into the path of his vehicle.

Because of the dense fog prevailing in the area at the time, McFall stated that he was unable to see the animal or the approaching automobile in time to avert the crash.

Assist At Scene

An East Stroudsburg man and two Bangor women, all travelling in opposite directions for their places of employment, rendered assistance at the scene of the crash.

Earl Williams, of 54 Ransberry Ave., was the first on the scene. Moments later, Mrs. Edith Bisher and Mrs. Steven Visk, stopped to give aid. The two women are employed at the General Hospital. Williams works at Blue Ridge Textile Co.

The women drove LaBar to the hospital since they were on their way to work. McFall reportedly stated that he was all right, but later appeared at the hospital for treatment.

McFall was driving a late-model sedan. LaBar was at the controls of an early 1950 sedan.

Both vehicles had to be towed from the scene.

Torch Caused Fatal Blaze

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Fire Marshal Wilmer Boardman said Tuesday that a workman using an acetylene cutting torch had accidentally touched off an explosion that took three lives last week.

Boardman said the man using the torch apparently was Fred DeWitt, 32, one of three victims in the blast at the Cargill Inc. plant.

A resin tank at the plant exploded with such force last Thursday that the 12,000 gallon container sailed six stories into the air. The heat melted 11 nearby automobiles.

Area Women Take Part In Activity

MONROE COUNTY Mental Health Assn. volunteers under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Larkin yesterday manned a booth at the annual Summer carnival at Allentown State Hospital.

Almost all of the 2,000 patients attended the Mardi Gras on the hospital grounds.

Featured entertainment of the local booth, which included games and prizes, was the hammering of nails into planks. All participating received prizes.

Volunteers manning the booth included Mrs. James Cummings, association president; Mrs. Leon Meyung, Mrs. Stephen Moffett and Mrs. A. W. Gibson.

Distribute Gifts

Mrs. George Rung and Mrs. H. W. Goldstein circulated among patients who have not recovered sufficiently to approach a booth and those who are disabled, distributing candy, cigarettes and chewing gum.

Clubs which contributed funds for these items, distributed by the local volunteers, included Senior Women's Clubs, Mrs. William Hannas, president; Stroud Community Club, Mrs. Harold Cleaver, president; Barrett Community Club, Mrs. Leon Meyung, president, and Saylor's Progressive Club, Mrs. Karlene Muddell, president.

Cakes were contributed through the efforts of Mrs. J. R. Rumsey. Mrs. O'Dell Smith is chairman of volunteer services.

Pocono Playhouse

Reviewer Praises Cast

By Gloria S. Randolph

MOUNTAINHOME—The current production at the Pocono Playhouse is a study of frustrations. In "The Dark At The Top of the Stairs," William Inge has constructed a drama of emotions using the most mundane types of people seen in a humdrum atmosphere.

Under John O'Shaughnessy's sensitive direction the remarkably fine acting by every member of the cast gives each of Inge's characters new dimension.

Everyone in the play is a subject of misdirected love without understanding. In this week's performance "Lottie," Inge's most strongly drawn character is magnificently portrayed by Jean Stapleton. "Lottie" is a difficult role requiring the immeasurable abilities of a comedienne plus the quality of being able to arouse sympathy for a person who is, on the surface, selfish and intolerant.

Important Role

Miss Stapleton lets us see through the obvious, showing the reasons behind her prejudices (her unfulfilled, frustrated needs). On the whole "Lottie" keeps the play from becoming excessively drab. The part has warmth and vividness, as played by Miss Stapleton, and the comly side of the character is never exaggerated.

Barbara Baxley, as "Cora," the sometime nagging wife and overprotective mother, gives the part an awareness that is quite necessary to bring it above the rather gloomy mood of the play.

Michael Ryan is fine as "Rubin Flood," the errant husband. The realization of his limitations as a competitive business man, causes him to seek his "freedom." At the same time he desires to boss his family without accepting any emotional responsibility.

Michael Lewis is perfect as "Lottie's" apathetic husband, "Morris Lacey" who had learned to accept his position in life by being remote and avoiding all emotional contact.

The children of "Cora" and "Rubin" are victims of the lack of understanding on the part of both parents. Philip Fox plays "Sonny" with a perception that is remarkable. He is a fine young actor. Jada Rowland as "Reenie" gives a fine insight into the awkward feelings of a teen-aged girl who is painfully shy.

Carolyn Olson's portrayal of "Flirt Conroy," a flibbertigibbet teen-ager, is slightly overdone, but not distasteful. Teno Pollick plays "Sammy" with exact-

Driver Improvement Training

WHY IS DRIVER IMPROVEMENT TRAINING NEEDED?

A leading cause of traffic accidents is the unfit driver. One of the principal aims of the Governor's Traffic Safety Program is to keep unfit drivers off the streets and highways of Pennsylvania through a scientific evaluation and treatment of accident prone, violation prone and physically handicapped drivers.

People who are either physically or psychologically unfit to drive today's high speed vehicles must be kept off our crowded highways. They must be located, and either denied a operator's license, or retrained to be safe drivers.

To accomplish this, there are two phases to the Governor's program of driver improvement training. First, Pennsylvania is extending its successful "Safe Driver Clinic," administered by the State Police. Clinics similar to those already operating at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia will be established at State Police Headquarters in Harrisburg, Erie, Bethlehem, Montoursville, Hollidaysburg and Wyoming.

WHO WILL ATTEND SAFE DRIVER CLINICS?

Drivers who have caused two accidents, or had two serious violations within one calendar year may be referred to the clinics by the Department of Revenue. Drivers who have unsafe driving habits will be taught correct methods. Persons with physical defects which might interfere with safe driving will also be referred to clinics before licenses are issued to them, or restored to them after suspension.

WHAT DO THE CLINICS DO?

Each driver will receive five vision tests: lateral imbalance, visual acuity, depth perception, peripheral vision and color vision. His hearing will be tested, and he will be checked for "brake reaction," eye-hand coordination, and "vigilance."

The driver is also given an oral examination on the Motor Vehicle Code, and is required to interpret a list of traffic warning signs used in Pennsylvania. He is then given a short road test under ordinary road conditions, in which the examiner records all actions and habits displayed by the driver.

After his road test, the driver is interviewed concerning his past accidents and violations. With the completion of this interview, the examiner has a complete record of the driver's abilities, habits and attitudes. If his weakness is physical, he is advised of the proper correction. If he has acquired unsafe driving habits, he is so advised and taught the correct method. If the fault lies in his attitude, he is brought to realize that he forms only a part of the traffic pattern and must adjust his driving to conform with that pattern.

WHAT ARE TRAFFIC TRAINING SCHOOLS?

In addition to "Safe Driver Clinics" administered by the State Police, court-authorized traffic training schools are being encouraged for each county in Pennsylvania.

Offenders are ordered to attend these schools by the sentencing judge. Highway safety curricula is taught by police officers and local safety officials, as well as speakers from the Bureau of Traffic Safety and State Police.

If offenders attend classes faithfully and show a renewed interest in traffic safety, the judge can, and often will, lower the sentence, permitting a safe driver to get back on the road. By the same token, the judge can raise his sentence if he sees that an offender does not attend classes or shows only apathy following his suspension.

221 Give Blood At Signal Depot

CONTRIBUTIONS by 221 donors yesterday raised the Tobyhanna Signal Depot blood drive to 4,935 pints received thus far. The drive was originated in 1954.

The campaign will continue today when the depot will present a prize to the 5,000th donor. There were 15 deferrals in yesterday's group.

The drive is conducted twice a year, during January and July. Last January 402 pints were contributed.

Clyde Burke, depot public relations agent, is the chairman of the blood drive.

Burke said the Red Cross blood mobile, with regional blood center in Wilkes-Barre, will collect the donations and credit the Monroe County Red Cross chapter.

Plans were discussed on this week's VFW convention in Harrisburg. The convention will run Wednesday through Saturday, and the Post Drum and Bugle Corps will appear at the convention for the first time.

Three representatives from the Stroudsburg post will attend the convention. They are Post Commander Hachtman, Frank Weller, post quartermaster, and George Straka, district commander.

After the meeting a film on the fighting in Korea was shown through the courtesy of Fred Feller of the film department of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Injured Youth In Hospital

CHARLES Hull, 13-year-old son of Mrs. Alice Hull, 320 Main St., Stroudsburg, injured in an auto accident last Friday, is a patient in Lower Bucks County Hospital, Bristol.

The boy's mother said last night he will be a patient for the next week or 10 days and would like to hear from his friends. He suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and is a patient in Room No. 1A5.

Andrew Marmo Held In Jail

ANDREW Marmo, 48, East Stroudsburg, RD 3, was committed to Monroe County Jail Monday on charges of assault and battery.

He was held in default of $500 bail after a hearing before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg justice of the peace.

Parole Violator Is Transferred

CONRAD Eugene McCarty, 18, of 803 W. Pennsylvania Ave., Pen Argyl, was transferred from Monroe County Jail to Northampton County Prison as a parole violator yesterday.

He had been held here since May on a charge of indecent assault.

Jones, 35, noted that "the rewards for Children's Aid work are above and beyond the normal compensations for a job."

He moved into his residence at 159 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg two weeks ago with his wife Florence, a registered nurse from Syracuse, N. Y., and his three children, aged six, five, and four weeks.

Jones knows full well the problems of homeless and needy children for during the depression his mother died, and his father, unable to support six children, had to send some to children's homes.

"I've been in institutions and institutional work for 25 years of my young life," Jones smiled, "and I find the work very satisfying, very much so."

He took over the job on July 1, and is getting acquainted with the agency's policies. He finds Monroe County very much the same as Ogdensburg, N. Y., the upstate town from which he moved.

Education, Service

Jones received his B.A. from St. Lawrence University in Canton, N. Y. and his master's degree from the University of Buffalo School of Social Work in 1954. During the Second World War he served in the Pacific Theater.

From July 1954 to the time he moved here, Jones was superintendent of the United Helpers' Home in Ogdensburg, a group care institution for dependent neglected children and aged persons.

He enjoys all sports and was a member of the Ogdensburg Rotary Club, editor of the club's newsletter and manager of the Rotary's boy baseball team.

The Children's Aid Society here provides foster home care, services for unwed mothers, adoption services, and protection services for children in their own home.

Two Case Workers

Beddes Jones, the office employee include an office worker and two case workers, Mrs. A. C. Gearhart and Mrs. Frances Stepien.

Funds for the Red Feather organization are approximately 25 percent from the Community Chests, and the rest through the county commissioners' Children's Aid Fund and contributions from parents.

Since May the society has handled cases for 139 children from 51 families. There is no age specifically under which children must qualify, but services are available for any child who needs them.

The office is open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays, and Tuesday night by appointment.

Police Hold Driver After Collision

A DRUNKEN driving charge was preferred on Alerton Counterman, of 101 1/2 Slocum Ave., Syracuse, N.Y., after he swung his car from one side of Route 611 to the other in Pocono Township last night at 6:05, causing an accident.

According to State Police, Counterman left a taproom on the east side of the highway, swung to the west side and back to the east side, hitting a car going south.

Counterman's 1953 sedan collided with a 1956 sedan driven by Peter Moore Stowell of R.D. 3, East Stroudsburg. A passenger, Nicholas Stowell suffered minor bruises and abrasions.

Trooper Evan Chaplain arrested Counterman and placed him in the Monroe County Jail. Damage to Counterman's car was $300; there was no estimate of damages to the Stowell Packard.

Private Duty Nurses Agree To $16 Pay Base

THE PRIVATE DUTY Nurses Assn. has decided to accept $16 per eight hour day as base pay instead of $18 agreed upon last month. The new rate became effective Monday.

The association came to this conclusion, it was reported yesterday by officers, after much consideration and consultations with the executive committee of the board of directors of Monroe County General Hospital.

No reason was given for the decision. The board however reportedly was not in favor of a four dollars boost from the base pay of $14. The nurses group had previously adopted the larger figure at a June 14 meeting.

Private duty nursing charges of $18 for an eight-hour day of service were adopted for this area by the Private Duty Section of District 2, Pennsylvania Nurses Assn. at its last meeting. The base pay had been $14; the minimum of Pennsylvania State Nurses Assn. is $18.

The private duty nurse is a self employed practitioner.

Fog Causes Collision

A TRACTOR-trailer operated by Edward Arnold, Bethlehem, and a car driven by Harold Ace, East Stroudsburg R.D., collided on Route 209, seven miles north-east of East Stroudsburg yesterday at 6:30 a.m. No one was injured.

State Police from Stroudsburg said visibility was limited by fog when the vehicles collided. Damage was done to the left front side of the car and the left rear wheel and axle of the trailer.

6 Districts Sign Papers For School

BANGOR— Formal final papers for the new Bangor Area Senior Joint High School were signed by the six-member districts of the area's school system at a special meeting of the authority and board members last night.

In signing the papers, the six-districts left the door open for any other districts from the Bangor area to become part of the school system. The papers provide for a 27-year lease of the new school for which groundbreaking ceremonies will be held Saturday, at 2 p.m. in Upper Mount Bethel Township (near Five Points).

Announced shares for the annual rental of $141,200 per year were established in the papers signed last night.

Allocation

Bangor's share will be 33.59 percent; Portland, 3.56 percent; Roseto, 8.52; Lower Mt. Bethel, 14.01; Upper Mt. Bethel, 22.24; and Washington Twp., 18.08 percent.

All presidents and secretaries of the joint school board will meet on Thursday, July 21, in the school district's administration building to sign the printed lease papers.

Hildabrant Vote Goes To Meyner

MONROE County's delegate to the Democratic National Convention, Charles Hildebrandt, of Saylorsburg, along with U. S. Rep. Francis E. Walter and Elmer J. Geiss of Danielsville, cast his Monday caucus ballot for New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Both Geiss and Hildebrandt are from the 15th Pennsylvania Congressional District which Walter has represented since 1933. Agnes McCartney and Nicholas Serban, the other 15th District delegates, cast their votes for Sen. John Kennedy.

Hildebrandt, in a statement to The Daily Record before he left for the convention, indicated that he would "probably follow Gov. Lawrence's lead."

Lawrence led the caucus swing to Kennedy.

The Pennsylvania delegation threw 64 votes to Kennedy, eight to Stevenson, 4 1/2 to Lyndon B. Johnson, 1 1/2 to Meyner, one to Stuart Symington and 1/2 vote to Governor Lawrence.

THE GREENE-Droher watershed protection and flood prevention project in Monroe, Wayne and Pike Counties is expected to move into the construction stage next month, the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Office in Harrisburg reported yesterday.

Covering 46,220 acres, it is co-sponsored by the Soil Conservation Districts and county commissions of the three counties.

The report also said the work plan on the Brodheads Creek project in Monroe and Pike Counties is 70 percent completed. It covers 90,432 acres.

A preliminary investigation of a project covering 31,000 acres on Pocono Creek in Monroe County has been completed, but there has been no authorization for planning.

The Greene-Droher project and seven other structures on four projects are expected to be completed this year.

Welcome Surplus

Uncle Sam is doing a bit of rejoicing these days, just as we are inclined to do when we can finish out a year financially in the black.

After showing deficits in 1958 and 1959, the old fellow turned up a rather surprising surplus for the 1960 fiscal period that ended June 30.

It runs between $200-million and $500-million, which is much smaller than deficits of recent years have been. But even though small, it is good to be using black ink instead of red.

Economics Made Easy

There is a story to the effect that a king, seeking to understand the science of economics, sent for all the economists in his realm. After hearing them out, he understood less of economics than he had before.

Then a page boy stepped forward and told the king that there was still one economist left, an old and wise man. The page persuaded the king to send for the sage. The king agreed only on condition that the ancient economist explain economics in one sentence.

When the old man appeared, the assignment again was explained to him. He agreed to its terms. "The science of economics," he told the king, "is contained in these nine words: There is no such thing as a free lunch."

Economic data can be argued this way and that; statistics can be made to Having money in his purse at the end of a year is a grand and glorious feeling which we hope will induce him to plan debt reduction ahead of tax cuts.

As a member of Uncle's family, we'd feel lots happier if we saw him trimming his overhead and peeling off his debts, rather than succumbing to new ways of spending his substance under the pressure of persons who apparently think he can do business differently than private individuals can do.

prove all sorts of things; but in the end, one fact remains:

Somebody has to pay. This fact is inescapable, even when the government is providing the lunch. In that case, it's the taxpayer who has to pay.

Thus, when new spending proposals are put forward as vote bait, taxpayers should always remember the free lunch. Somebody has to pay for it, and that somebody is the taxpayer, even though proponents of the plans would have him believe that he really is getting a free lunch.

What the taxpayer must ask is whether, if he buys this type of "lunch," he is getting the right kind of lunch for the right kind of money. Will he be getting his money's worth?

Sugar Quota

The first effective step, the 1960 Sugar Act, has been taken by Congress against Castro's Cuba. The step is late—surely a year late—but it is now a law. Castro is already squealing like a stuck pig.

Despite Castro's intimate relationship with Soviet Russia, Cuba's economy depended upon two main factors—the United States purchase of the Cuban sugar crop at a price that was over two cents above the world price and American tourism.

The sugar quota and price were a direct subsidy, this country taking from Cuba a quota which for 1960 amounted to 3,119,655 tons. This was 200,000 tons more than for 1959. How any such increase in the quota could be justified for 1960 is beyond belief.

Actually Cuba supplied more sugar than continental American cane or beet growers. In other words, the United States increased its subsidy to Castro while Castro was seizing American property and conducting an anti-American campaign throughout Latin America.

The passage of the Sugar Act, which is definitely and overtly designed against Castro, is the first salutary step that our government has taken against Castro.

The policy of the State Department has been to do nothing about Cuba, lest Soviet Russia take retaliatory steps in Turkey and Iran. It is this negative policy, pursued since the death of John Foster Dulles, which has been so costly in Paris and Tokyo and Havana. It is a policy of response to Russia's initiative.

The Cuban situation gives ample evidence that it is now taking the initiative in Latin America.

Fidel Castro has not only established a People's Republic—the first stage of a Communist revolution—but as is usual in such enterprises, Soviet personnel, including Red Chinese, have come to Cuba in large numbers to assist in the establishment of the new administration.

Anastas Mikoyan came to Cuba to formalize arrangements and reciprocal visits are being prepared between Khrushchev and Castro.

The State Department failed to meet these events and continued to subsidize the Castro regime through the sugar bounty. True, the quotas are set by Congress but it was the duty of the State Department to call attention to the dangers of the subsidy and to issue a statement to the public which could not be misunderstood.

There is no sugar shortage. Cuba's sugar will not be missed. It is possible that Soviet Russia may come to the aid of Cuba but if Castro cannot get a better deal out of Russia on sugar than he got on oil, it will not be long before the economic pinch in Cuba will be sorely felt.

If Americans assume that such an economic pinch will seriously influence Castro's policies, they are mistaken. Communists are never affected by the sufferings of their people. When Stalin needed heavy machinery, he exported butter so that the Ukrainian peasants had none.

The export of butter gave him the foreign exchange he needed to buy the machinery. It will be no different in Cuba. The people will be fed the pabulum of hate-speeches and wild promises for the future which they will believe, because hungry people like to hate.

They like to blame someone besides themselves for their misfortunes. They will blame the United States.

On the other hand, to Soviet Russia, Cuba is a pawn on a very wide chessboard. As it stands now, Cuba is a source of great embarrassment to the United States and it will remain such no matter who is elected President.

Soviet Russia is playing the Cuban pawn to see what move we will make. Thus far, we have made no move. Shocked by the collapse of the Summit Conference of Paris, by the anti-Eisenhower riots in Tokyo involved in the confusions of a national election, we have not moved significantly.

Meanwhile, Khrushchev has been having his ideological problems with Red China over the nature of his orthodoxy. The central accusation against Khrushchev is pro-American! By that is meant that he does not believe that war is essential to destroy imperialism. By imperialism is meant American capitalism.

Much can happen during the next year that could leave Cuba without a friend. Even if, perchance, Adlai Stevenson were to be Secretary of State, he could not make a deal with Soviet Russia that would tolerate Russia's advantage in Cuba.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Not All Deeds Restricted

Dear Mr. Editor:

Regarding the article "Objects to Zoning," I would like to say this to the gentleman listed as the writer, that he is one hundred per cent correct in stating, "If each and every one looks closely enough in his deeds he will find that many residential deeds already have sufficient protective clauses."

Now, Mr. Writer, that word "many" is the unseen atom bomb, the start of "neighborhood wars." My wife and I awoke one morning, just a few years back, right here in Bartonsville, Monroe County, and were "speechless" etc. to see a huge chicken coop going up, right next to our kitchen window.

To make a long story short, Mr. Writer, my deeds called for "full restriction," but two of the neighbors had deeds with "No Restrictions." Is this free enterprise, sir?

When Henry Ford came out with the Model T, a minority complained as to its evils, etc. Who does not own an automobile today?

I trust you, sir, and the others who may think the same as you, give serious thought to this situation regarding zoning.

Save yourself the lawyer's fees, etc., that are involved when you find out that "many" is not enough. All deeds should read alike.

Russian Crude

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

Los Angeles: When Eleanor Roosevelt confronted newspaper people and said she was ready for their queries, nobody asked why she thought a two-time loser like Adlai Stevenson could win the presidency. Mrs. Roosevelt was glib and articulate throughout the session. When asked if she believed Kennedy had the necessary 761 votes, she snapped: "Let's count them . . ."

When she said a Kennedy-led ticket would not win because of the negro vote, she was echoing political crystal ball experts.

Mrs. Roosevelt made it clear that she had good information (on the prejudice) that would defeat Kennedy in November. She did not say why she believed a ticket led by Stevenson with Kennedy would click.

Harry Golden, editor of the Carolina Israelite and author of "Enjoy, Enjoy," (due in the book stalls next week) is a Democrat who believes Nixon will be the next president.

Carl Sandburg, a Democrat, told Golden, "We must not minimize the political resourcefulness of Mr. Nixon. He has done his homework."

The New York delegation which gave 101 votes to Kennedy met the opposition of the negro leaders. Their spokesman was Cong. Adam Powell of Harlem's negro belt. The negro leaders wanted no part of Kennedy when the caucus began.

Las Vegas gamblers now offer odds of 7 to 5 (6 to 5 a few days ago) that the G. O. People will win the election "whether or not the candidate is Nixon."

If Kennedy is the nominee, his political foes will flood the airwaves and newspapers with ads quoting papa Kennedy's speeches when ambassador, excerpts from them may cost him the election, they told this reporter.

Pa. Kennedy's friends say he would spend five million dollars to see his boy elected president. Papa was on Lindbergh's team when Lindbergh was preaching peace at any price with Hitler.

The Kennedy forces spent so much money in West Virginia to win that primary (about half a million) the was called it "the 2nd Louisiana Purchase." Do the Messrs. Kennedy and Nixon (and the other hopefuls) know that every man who became President in a year ending in zero, died while in office from assassination or natural causes?

Look it up, starting with Lincoln.

Paul Butler, retiring chairman of the Democratic National Committee, presented this reporter with an "honored guest" badge. The card accompanying it, says: "This is for what you have done to help the Democratic party."

The Pennsylvania Story

Kingmaker Role

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Today marks the start of roll calls for the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles — with one of the more interesting questions centering around whether the big 81-vote Pennsylvania delegation is destined to play its hoped-for "kingmaker" role.

Within the past few days there have been the usual last minute predictions, "reliable source" quotes and similar prognostications as to what the delegation will do in the official roll calls starting today.

Historically in the show-

downs these predictions usually failed to materialize.

For example, during the last Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1956 it was all virtually "signed, sealed and delivered" that the full (then) 74 delegates votes of the Pennsylvania delegation would be whammed solidly behind the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson.

In the first poll of that convention only 62% of the state's 74 votes could be mustered for front-runner Stevenson. Even on the final roll call this could be increased to only 67%.

Did Pennsylvania that year play a "kingmaker" role? The question is debatable even now. It is true that by the time the alphabetical roll call reached Pennsylvania on that final ballot the votes cast by the Pennsylvania delegation for Mr. Stevenson pushed the count over the critical point.

As for any kingmaker role the question at that time revolved around whether or not the "mechanical die" already had been cast and Pennsylvania stumbled coincidentally over the decisive point.

Nevertheless the fact is inescapable that it was Pennsylvania that could claim credit for being the first state to bump the tally over the required number for nomination. The tremendous final tally on that roll call showed clearly that even with the entire 74-vote Pennsylvania bloc voting against Mr. Stevenson, he would have won hands down.

Undoubtedly Pennsylvania Democrats had much to be thankful for in their overall role that year. Much of the credit went to the nominally titular head of the delegation, then Governor George M. Leader.

As the spokesman for the group it was he who shared and held the public spotlight.

Yet, behind all this, the power factor actually rested in the hands of two key Pennsylvanians who dictated the actions that finally emerged on the convention floor: the late James A. Finneggan, of Philadelphia, Stevenson campaign manager — and balding old political pro, Democratic national committeeman and then Mayor of Pittsburgh David L. Lawrence.

Four years later the picture has changed considerably. Today Mr. Lawrence is Governor. Mr. Finneggan has died.

Today there also are two keys to the Pennsylvania delegation: (1) David Leo Lawrence, and (2) now powerful Philadelphia Democratic leader William Green, Jr.

These two hold the ace of spades as to whether Pennsylvania and its now enlarged 81-vote delegate bloc is destined to play an actual kingmaker role this year.

Regardless of what either has had to say on the candidate subject to date, the official showdown and the vote or voice that counts will become evident as the roll calls start today.

The kingmaker question insofar as the Pennsylvania delegation is concerned may well wind up as moot and disputable as it was four years ago.

British airplanes, operating from ships in the Mediterranean Sea, flew over the streets of southern Italy and machine gunned the streets and buildings.

Reports From Congress

Records Compared

By Congressional Quarterly Washington — The "attendance" records of the three Senators seeking the Democratic nomination won't cut much ice at this week's convention, but there has been a lot of talk about them. Here's how they stand.

On 172 roll-call votes recorded by Congressional Quarterly between Jan. 7 and July 3, 1960, Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy, and Stuart Symington answered "yea" or "nay" as follows:

• Johnson — 162 times, for a voting participation score of 94.2 percent.

• Kennedy 41 times, for a score of 23.8 percent.

• Symington — 89 times, for a score of 51.7 percent.

As Johnson himself put it, in announcing his candidacy July 5, "those who have engaged in active campaigns have missed hundreds of these votes."

In missing 131 votes Kennedy achieved the lowest voting participation score in the Senate in 1960. By comparison, Sen. Estes Kefauver, who blazed the primary trail in 1956 managed to answer to 49 percent of that year's roll calls.

But Kennedy's absences in pursuit of delegates didn't prevent him from announcing his position on all but two of the 172 votes, giving him an on-the-record score of 98.8 percent.

Similarly, Johnson recorded his position on all but five of the votes and Symington on all but seven, for on-the-record scores of 97.1 and 95.9 percent, respectively.

Where They Stand — Of greater interest to the delegates in Los Angeles may be the positions of the three Senators on the leading issues of the day. To shed some light on this subject, CQ reviewed all of the Senate's roll-call votes in the 86th Congress — 215 in 1959 and 172 in 1960 — and selected 42 concerning policy matters on which Congress and the country are divided.

Analysis of these votes revealed broad agreement among the candidates on the need for substantial foreign aid and defense spending, high price supports, moderate labor reforms, increased Federal aid to education and to depressed areas, and a pay boost for Federal workers. They disagreed, however, on civil rights, housing aids, and tax loopholes.

• Foreign Aid — Johnson, Kennedy, and Symington opposed the Senate's decision in 1959 to abandon a five-year, $5 billion program for the Development Loan Fund and to cut military assistance from $1.6 billion to $1.3 billion. They also opposed an unsuccessful effort in 1960 to limit military assistance to $1.8 billion.

• Defense Funds — All three men voted in 1959 to add $234 million to Army procurement funds. In 1960, when the Senate added $1 billion to the President's defense budget, Kennedy and Symington opposed, while Johnson supported, a Senate - House compromise chopping the Senate increase in half.

• Price Supports — Johnson, Kennedy, and Symington supported a move in 1959 to raise supports for wheat to 85 percent of parity, in return for a 20 percent cut in acreage. In 1960 they all opposed amendments to reduce wheat supports to 65 percent by 1963 and to continue supports at 75 percent. All three also opposed an Administration plan to enlarge the soil bank to 60 million acres.

• Labor Reform — During the bitter struggle to enact a labor reform bill in 1959, Johnson, Kennedy, and Symington opposed three "toughening" amendments dealing with the rights of union members, state control over "no man's land" cases, and secondary boycotts.

• Aid-to-Education — The three Senators all voted to expand the 1960 school-aid bill to provide $1.1 billion annually in Federal grants for school construction or teachers' salaries. When that amendment was defeated, they supported a two-year program of $917 million a year.

• Depressed Areas — All three candidates voted for a $390-million package of loans and grants for redeveloping areas suffering from a chronic labor surplus. When the President vetoed the bill, they voted to override.

• Pay Raise — Johnson, Kennedy and Symington also supported the election-year pay raise for 1.5 million Federal workers and voted to override the President's veto—the second such move to succeed during the Eisenhower era.

• Civil Rights — During a two-month debate over a civil rights bill in 1960, Kennedy and Symington supported, while Johnson opposed, efforts to strengthen the measure by increasing Federal authority to seek injunctions and by providing the Presidentially-appointed officers to enroll voters subjected to discrimination.

• Housing — Kennedy and Symington voted for, and Johnson against, attempts in 1959 to step up the rate of Federal spending for urban renewal and for mortgage purchases. But all three voted to override the President's vetoes of two successive housing bills.

• Taxes — The three Senators backed the Senate's decisions in 1960 to retain 10 percent excise taxes on local telephone service and passenger transportation, but to repeal the four per cent tax credit on dividend income. Kennedy and Symington also voted for, and Johnson against, moves to reduce the 27.5 percent depletion allowance for oil and gas producers and to limit deductions for business and entertainment expenses. Only Kennedy voted to apply a withholding tax to income from interest and dividends.

Health Column

Contact Lenses

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

After writing a column about contact lenses some time ago, I received several inquiries about how easy or difficult it is to adjust to these tiny glasses.

I can't give a hard and fast answer to this question. For some persons, adaptation is fairly easy. Others can never wear contacts comfortably.

Foreign Body You must remember that a contact lens, no matter how carefully and correctly it is fitted, is a foreign body in the eye. You must learn to tolerate it just as many persons must learn to use false teeth. And you know how some persons are carefully fitted with a complete set of dentures, then decide they are too uncomfortable and solve the problem by leaving them at home.

For almost anyone, the use of contact lenses will be somewhat uncomfortable for a while. One person may experience some trouble for a week or two. Another may have some discomfort for possibly a month or even longer.

Some Exceptions And, as I said before, some persons find that they can never be at ease with them. Hypnotism, I understand, is being employed on some patients with some success. Sometimes complete changes in the lenses may be necessary before a person finds them completely comfortable. Let me explain that eye specialists consider comfort "a varying degree of unconsciousness of the presence of these small plastic disks on the eyes."

Fitting Contacts The fitting of contact lenses is generally a bit more difficult than the fitting of ordinary spectacles. It depends, of course, upon the condition of the patient's eyes, the type of lenses used and, naturally, upon who is doing the fitting.

In most cases, you can expect to visit the practitioner at least five or six times for fittings. There have been extreme cases in which 20 visits were needed.

Have No Difficulty Most persons, however, don't have such difficulty adjusting to this type of visual aid. Most are completely satisfied with contact lenses.

Some find them so unusually comfortable that they say they can sleep with their contact lenses in place. Generally, though, this is inadvisable. The eye can maintain a healthy state more easily if it is left uncovered for at least a portion of the day.

Question and Answer S.W.: Are sebaceous cysts dangerous and how do you think they should be removed?

Answer: Sebaceous cysts are seldom dangerous. However, it is usually best to have them removed surgically.

The British call theirs "Spiffa" and give as the origin the first letters of "Stamps perforated with initials of firms" but once again we find it explained earlier as "Stamps perforated for insurance against fraud."

Some of the reasons why stamps are perforated are (1). To change ordinary stamps into "official" stamps such as the "OS" perforated in Australian stamps; (2) To change regular issues into "Postage Due" stamps as the "TD" perforated in stamps of Tunisia; (3) To identify the original purchaser of the stamps and protect him against pilferage of his stamps by his personnel.

Almost as soon as postage stamps came into use we find complaints about employees stealing them. In the early days stamps were often used to make payments by mail, as money orders had not yet been introduced and the postoffice not only sold stamps but also bought them back for cash from those who had received them in payment of a debt.

Age-Old Problem

Dear Abby: I think it is time somebody started some kind of national organization to save our youth from the moral decay that will eventually destroy our nation. The caliber of young people today is so discouraging that it makes me sick to walk down the street and look at them. SENIOR CITIZEN

Dear Senior Citizen: First

someone should start some kind of an organization to reform some of our adults. Their lack of honesty, integrity and sobriety is even more discouraging. It is their bad example that has caused our youth to laugh at the old-fashioned virtues.

Dear Abby: I am in a state of shock and am sick inside. My husband's boss sent him on a business trip last week. He has gone on many and I have always packed for him because he doesn't know how to pack. When he comes home, I unpack his suitcase. All his things are thrown in his case every which way. I never cared because it was just his soiled laundry.

On his last trip I unpacked for him and my heart stood still. Everything was packed perfectly. Socks matched up together. Pajamas folded neatly. He never could have done it himself. There must be another woman in the picture. Now, when he comes near me, I freeze up. I can't bring myself to ask him any questions because I guess I don't want to face the truth. Should I just leave him or what?

SICK INSIDE

Dear Sick: Most of the things we worry about never happened, or never will happen. For goodness sakes, ask him and get it over with. You could be off base by a country mile. Bellhops frequently pack for men who must check out in a hurry. Give your husband a chance to defend himself.

Dear Abby: My husband is 27, but he acts like he has only one week to live. I've heard of people wanting to see the world, but this guy's got it bad. In the year we have been married we've been half-way across the country.

We get settled in an apartment and I meet some nice neighbors — wham! He's ready to move again. His kind of work is easy to find and he says we might just as well see the country before we have children and get tied down.

I tell him I want to take root somewhere, but he's so busy thinking about where he wants to go next he doesn't even listen. How can I get him to stay put? "GYPSY"

Dear "Gypsy": Relax and enjoy the scenery. As long as your husband is able to make a living wherever he is, let him get the wanderlust out of his system while you are able to go with him. Some women don't know when they're well off.

Confidential To "My Own Psychiatrist": You are kidding only yourself. Even a Psychiatrist isn't his own psychiatrist.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

U.S. Actions In Congo Carry Risk

THE request of the Leopoldville government for American troops in the Congo presented the United States with a number of conflicting considerations.

There is a desire in the United States to see the Congo launched on an independent course without a long period of chaos in which international Communism can dabble as it is in Cuba.

Red China and the Soviet Union already have taken their stand beside the rebellious elements which threaten to destroy the government.

Conflict With Reds U. S. intervention—even as part of an international force or under U. N. injunction, both of which have been suggested—thus means direct confrontation of the Communist sphere on another active front.

The United States is equally desirous of fostering good relations with all the African states. The general African attitude, no matter how it may be tempered by a voluntary request from Leopoldville, is that fewer and not more white troops are wanted in Africa, no matter where they come from.

The United States would be embarrassed if the presence of American troops should be twisted by the Leopoldville government into a weapon against the Katanga dissenters.

Could Happen This could easily happen if the Belgian and American troops released Leopoldville troops for action.

There is a strong possibility that this was one of the chief factors in the Leopoldville request, since loss of Katanga means a body blow not only against a unified Congo, but against an economically viable nation at all.

Aside from all these things, hundreds of Americans in different parts of the Congo, fearing violence, were beginning to call for help.

The fact that there was no request for a U. N. military force made the situation more complicated.

OKs Training Sites

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Defense Minister Gen. Botelho Moniz of Portugal says his government is willing to provide military training grounds for NATO troops, including those of West Germany, military circles reported Monday.

CARS ARE LINED up bumper to bumper in Leopoldville street waiting to board ferry for ride across Congo River to Brazzaville. At least 3,000 whites, mostly Belgians, reached safety in Brazzaville and were waiting for planes to Europe. Leopoldville was generally calm but violence continued in other cities of the new republic of Congo.

Book By William Brewster Has References To County

WILLIAM BREWSTER, historical writer who was associated with the former Stroudsburg Daily Times a number of years ago, is the author of a new book entitled "The Fourteenth Commonwealth: Vermont and the States that Failed."

The book deals primarily with the four movements, for new states, by Vermont, Westmoreland, Franklin and Transylvania (Kentucky).

The second section of the book is devoted to Westmoreland, the territory of which included most of Monroe County, and all of Pike and Wayne Counties. A number of the early inhabitants of Monroe County were actors in the events related and among others such names appear as the Shoemakers, the McDowells, John Jennings, Luke Broadhead, and Col. Jacob Stroud.

Auctioneers To Convene In Kentucky

NORTHEASTERN Pennsylvania chapter of Keystone State Auctioneers held its monthly dinner meeting Monday night at Otto's Restaurant, Star Route, Stroudsburg. The association is composed of seven northeastern Pennsylvania counties.

The meeting was in charge of Col. Henry Brooks, of Wilkes-Barre. A discussion relative to the national convention, which convenes in Louisville, Ky., July 14-15-16, was held. Col. Brooks will attend the convention as a delegate of this group.

Among the guests present was Col. James Rittmaki, of Pittsburgh, a member of the western chapter. He gave a report of auctioneers' state meeting held in mid-June at Ligonier.

Col. Lloyd Force, of Bloomsburg, was appointed chairman to arrange for the next meeting. It is to be held the first Monday in August at a site yet to be selected.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Florence, Italy. Like the afterglow that lingers in your eyelids when you switch off the light, each day ends with a bright impression of the last thing we have seen, superimposed on a day of vivid impressions.

Tonight it is Florence that "Jewel of a city held in a golden cup." As we approached it from the heights of the Apennines — the villas of Florentine society on the hillside and the city itself with the sun setting in an orange ball of fire behind the jumble that is the Pont de Vecchio.

It has been a day of contrasts from our awakening to Lake Como sparkling in the morning sun. It was a short trip to Milan — a bustling, modern city with glass skyscrapers ("Scratch the sky" is the way Italians say it) when there are no fountains in front of the new buildings they are as severe and simple as the buildings themselves.

There is nothing simple about the cathedral of Milan, scintillated and spired and laced and embroidered in stone. It was a holy day in Italy — the Fete of St. Peter and Paul — and coming out of the sunlight into the vaulted dimness of the Cathedral the first impression was of Grand Central station with the lights out. There were crowds of people coming and going in what seemed like ghostly train loads.

Only as your eyes became accustomed to the dimness, did you become aware that masses, with loud speakers echoing in the vaults, were being said; that candles were being lit in other chapels, seeming as multitudinous as stars. And only when you found a place by a pillar, could you stand, unjostled by sight-seers and let your eyes be dazzled by the jewel tones of light through the famous stained glass windows.

There is a very nice arrangement in Italy for us wherever there is a Cathedral for us to see — there are pigeons outside for Robin to feed and grain sellers in the square to keep her supplied. In Milan there are not so many pigeons as in Venice but there are plenty.

Since our time in Milan was so limited, we added only a visit to see "The Last Supper" by Leonardo da Vinci in the tiny chapel of the convent of Santa Maria delle Grazie — and it somehow came as a total surprise. So many of the sights we have seen — the countryside, the buildings, the people, the paintings have looked so much like their picture post cards that you couldn't quite believe them.

The painting of the Last Supper, so familiar from a thousand reproductions, looked totally strange; the colors so soft and faded — the sitting so austere — one wall of a bare room surrounded by white plastered walls. The explanation of the setting became clear through two photographs, showing the building as it was in 1943 after a bomb had left it a mass of rubble with only the two end walls left standing.

The effect of the picture took more study. It is much taller than the narrow strip we usually see — and much deeper with the dim room stretching back of the painted figures. The pictured windows opening on a landscape that stretches back forever.

For the rest of our trip — the real landscape of Tuscany seemed to stretch out forever, too. Outside of Milan on the "Autostrada delle Sole," "The highway of the Sun," which eventually will stretch from Milan to Naples — we had lunch at a glorified combination of a Holiday Motel, a Howard Johnson, a super-service station — all done in modern-modernistic. The super highway itself was also ultra-ultra with never a curve or grade to Bologna — which is as far as it goes. Our Thru-way has nothing on this. Which made it all the stranger to enter the outskirts of Bologna, looking like a medieval cloister with its miles of Colonnades along the streets.

From Bologna to Florence there are 106 kilometers of road without one straight stretch. It leads up and over and around the ridges of the Apennines which unlike the Alps are cultivated to the very tip of each summit and ridge so that each turn brings you a new view of the kingdoms of the world.

No wonder all the Roman kings and the de Medicis came from Tuscany. It is a country to give anyone delusions of grandeur.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Franklin Mosteller (Anthony of Stroudsburg)

Janice Elaine Wildrick And Elwood Mosteller Wed In Craigs Meadows

Janice Elaine Wildrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Wildrick, of Craigs Meadows, East Stroudsburg RD 2, became the bride of Elwood Franklin Mosteller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kowitz of Stokes Mill Road, East Stroudsburg, at 4 p.m. June 18 before the candle-lit altar of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Smithfield at Craigs Meadows.

The double-ring nuptial rite was solemnized by Rev. William F. Wunder. The bridal couple knelt on a white satin pillow before the altar during the exchange of marriage vows.

Mrs. Robert Wolbert was soprano soloist and before the ceremony, sang "Because," and "O Perfect Love," as well as "The Lord's Prayer" during the wedding. Her flowers were white tea roses with baby breath.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of nylon and lace trimmed with sequins and pearls with a sabbina neckline. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of rhinestones. She carried a cascade of white rosebuds with an orchid center.

Mrs. Marjorie Thomas, of Belvidere, N.J., sister of the bride, was Matron-of-honor. She wore a gown of white nylon organza over taffeta with crown of sequins. She carried a cascade of white carnations.

The bridesmaids, Kathleen Lesoine of East Stroudsburg, RD

2, and Mrs. Gloria Bush of Pocono Pines, wore gowns of white nylon organza over taffeta with crowns of sequins, and carried cascade bouquets of white carnations.

David A. Edwards, of East Stroudsburg, was best man. Ushers were King Beers of East Stroudsburg and John Bush of Pocono Pines. Paul Wildrick, brother of the bride, was acolyte.

The altar was graced with bouquets of white pom-poms. The bride's mother wore a light blue cotton dress with overskirt of lace with blue and white accessories. Her flowers were white tea roses with baby breath.

The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of pink cotton with pink embroidery and white accessories. Her flowers were white tea roses with baby breath. The reception was held at Mountain Manor, Marshalls Creek, for about 150 guests. Included in the buffet supper was a four-tiered wedding cake.

The bride was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School with the Class of 1958 and is employed by Shawnee Press, Delaware Water Gap.

The bridegroom was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School with the Class of 1957 and is employed by Edinger-Wyckoff Company of Stroudsburg.

Following a seashore honeymoon the newlyweds will be at home to their friends in a newly furnished home in Delaware Water Gap.

Auxiliary Of Bushkill Fire Company Meets

Bushkill — The Ladies' Auxiliary of The Bushkill Volunteer Fire Company met at the firehouse for their final meeting until fall.

Mrs. Ivan Michaels presided over the business meeting attended by ten members.

Amendments to the by-laws were approved by the Fire Company and the membership voted to have booklets made up of the By-Laws and amendments to distribute to each member.

A discussion was held on a birthday calendar project, prices will be obtained and the matter discussed further in the Fall. Final plans were discussed for the annual carnival given by the Fire Company and committees appointed.

The Missionary Society of the Reformed Church Bushkill asked the Auxiliary to serve a luncheon to the Missionary Guild of the Reformed Church which will meet in October at the local church. Membership approved this project and committees will be appointed at a later date.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Carl Van Why and Mrs. Louis Messerle.

Cruse-Shutt Wedding Solemnized

Mt. Pocono — Henry Edward Cruse of Mt. Pocono and Mildred Emma Schutt also of Mt. Pocono were united in marriage in the First Methodist Church of Frackville, on Sunday afternoon at 3. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Frank Carpenter, pastor of the church. Guests present were members of the immediate family.

Bible Students Plan To Assist Friendly Club

The Craigs Meadows Bible Students met Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith.

The discussion period was devoted to an article in the Readers Digest about the 23rd, or Shepherd's Psalm, and a verse in Luke 16.

It was decided to assist the Friendly Club of St. Paul's Lutheran Church with posters for their bazaar, and also to assist with the cleaning up after the bazaar, in addition to the silhouette and photography booths which were planned previously.

The program was concluded with a hot dog roast. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bates, Raymond LaBar, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blickenderfer, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Fisher, and son, Jacky, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith, and their children, Gail, Stanley Jr., and Nancy.

Carol Wilhoite Honored At Bridal Shower

A bridal shower, in honor of Carol Wilhoite, who will become the bride of Jack Harmon in the near future, was held at the Swartley home on Thursday, July 7. Judy Swartley and Mary Jane Hintze, who will be bridesmaids in the wedding party, were co-hostesses for the shower.

Miss Wilhoite thought she was to play cards and was quite surprised to find the room decorated with white streamers, leading to a huge wedding bell in the center of the room. The bell was filled with gifts.

The guests attending were Pat Ace, Priscilla Steinhauer, Jeannette Munson, Alice Nitrader, Mrs. Wilhoite, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Hintze, and Mrs. Swartley as well as the co-hostesses — Miss Swartley and Miss Hintze.

Sending gifts, but unable to attend were Joan Hester, Bonnie Yost, Inez Kalenberz, Marilyn Rutt, and Mrs. Frank Kovarik.

Picnic Held In Honor Of Birthday

Bushkill — A family gathering and picnic was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Arns in honor of Mrs. Arns's birthday.

Those attending included Mrs. Edgar Seese, Richard Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arns, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Van Why, Mrs. B. H. Bensley and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Arns and children Debbie and Alfred Jr.

Other callers in the afternoon included Mr. and Mrs. John Howey and daughters Caroline and Jo Ann.

Mrs. Arns is the former Betty Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker of Largo, Fla., former residents of Marshalls Creek.

Junior Crusaders

Bartonsville — The Junior Crusaders of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School will hold a hot dog roast at the parish house on Friday night at 6:30. Each member is asked to bring the hot dogs and rolls that he or she can eat. A devotional meeting will start at 7:30.

SIXTY YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Miller will celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary tomorrow. They live at 13 N. Sixth St., Stroudsburg. Mrs. Miller is 83 and her husband is 85.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller Observe Anniversary Of Sixty Years Together

"He hasn't beat me yet," is Mrs. Harry F. Miller's answer to the question concerning the success of sixty years of marriage with one man.

The Millers celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary tomorrow. For the past forty years they have resided at 13 N. Sixth St., Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Miller is the former Laura Bartholomew, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bartholomew of Stroudsburg. She has two brothers, Fred and Reeder, both of the Stroudsburg area.

Miller was one of ten children. Five of his seven sisters are still living. He is a former resident of Allentown.

They were married sixty years ago by Rev. Robert Crawford, a former pastor of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Miller is a former painter and paperhanger in Stroudsburg. Mrs. Miller is 83 and her husband is 85. They have one son, John B. Miller of Stroudsburg. Their two children are Mrs. Vernon Hanna of Delaware Water Gap and Michael Miller who is in the Air Force stationed at Goosebay, Labrador. He has been home on leave for two weeks and returns today to Labrador.

The Millers have a great grandson, Vernon Jon Hanna, three and one-half years of age of Delaware Water Gap. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Miller taught at "the school on the hill." Her salary at the time was $35 a month. Miller is the oldest living member of the Stroudsburg Masons from the standpoint of membership. He has been a member for forty years.

He has also been a member of the Zion United Church of Christ Choir for forty years. Last week he retired from the choir and was honored at a surprise party at the home of Martha and Victor Koch, Oak St., Stroudsburg. Forty people, including the choir and their families joined in the party.

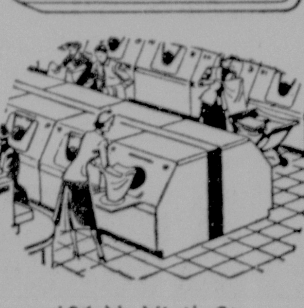

Sacrament Of Baptism Administered

Saylorsburg — Rev. Adan Bohner, pastor of Mt. Eaton Reformed Church administered the sacrament of infant baptism to Donald Allen Fritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fritz recently.

Ushers were Roy Correll and Fred Faustlick. Allen Faustlick was acolyte.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Dorothy Flower And Anthony Michael Pesarchik

Sterling — A double-ring ceremony and nuptial mass united in marriage Dorothy Leone Flower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Simons of Sterling, and Anthony Michael Pesarchik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Pesarchik, of Lake Ariel RD 1, on June 25 at Thomas More Church, Lake Ariel.

The Rev. James P. McAndrew, pastor of the church, officiated. Ann Nolan was soloist and Florence Swoyer was organist. The altar was decorated with white gladioli.

Given in marriage by Kenneth Simons, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza, featuring floral appliques at the neckline and on the brief sleeves. The floor-length skirt was straight in front and sides, with a full back terminating in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of iridescent sequins and seed pearls and she carried white roses and lily of the valley, centered with pale, aqua feathered carnations.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Lisa Roman, of Scranton, who chose a white organza street-length dress, with fitted bodice, scalloped neckline and brief sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Marlene Smith, of Baltimore; Annette Seasinger, Allentown; and Adair Edwards, Philadelphia.

Robert Andreychik, of Lake Ariel was best man. Ushers were Donald Andreychik, Lake Ariel; William Roman, Scranton; and Albert Wargo, Throop.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Simons chose a navy silk dress with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Pesarchik wore a dress of beige silk organza with white accessories and a white rose corsage.

A wedding breakfast for members of the immediate families and the wedding party was served at the home of the bride's grandparents, Lakeville, and was followed by a reception for 150 guests at the Hotel Capri. Vases of aqua, yellow and white flowers decorated the dining room.

For traveling, the bride chose a beige dress with white accessories and a corsage of aqua feathered carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Lake Consolidated High School, Lake Ariel, and the Episcopal Hospital School of Nursing, Philadelphia, where she has been a member of the staff.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Lake Consolidated School, is employed by Lohm and Hass, Philadelphia. He is a veteran of two years service with the United States Navy.

The couple will make their home at 4800 Gilmore Terrace, Apt. G-11, Philadelphia 24.

Phillips-Marsh Wedding

Barbara Lou Phillips daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Phillips of Stroudsburg and Floyd Marsh Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Marsh Sr., of Stroudsburg were married June 25 at noon at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Rev. Roger Stinson officiated at the candlelight service. Mrs. Triebler, the organist, played a selection of wedding songs.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace and carried a white prayer book and orchid.

Shirley LaBar of Stroudsburg was maid of honor. She wore a yellow and white dress and carried yellow carnations.

The bride's mother wore a beige dress of nylon and an orange carnation corsage.

A reception was held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home. After a wedding trip to New York State, the couple are now making their home in Snyderville.

Hemlock Grove WSCS Bazaar Next Week

GREENTOWN — A humorous error in a notice appearing in the Methodist Messenger announcing the annual chicken and biscuit supper and bazaar of the Hemlock Grove Women's Society of Christian Service of July 21 has tickled the readers of the monthly local publication.

The notice reads: "Home made gods will be on sale at the church in the afternoon preceding the supper!"

Plans for the supper and bazaar have been completed by the WSCS. Mrs. Lulu Strohle, chairman of the supper committee, has announced that serving will begin at 5 p.m. The public is invited.

Local Camp Group Has Olympic Interest

FOUR MEMBERS of the staff at Camp Lindenmere at Tannersville have a special interest in the coming Olympics.

They were the high school coaches of a trio of United States Olympic entrants.

John Klingman and Johnny Mook coached Philadelphia Olympic broad jumper "Bo" Roberson, while Carl Greenhut coached sprinter Dave Sime, the former Duke flash and Fred Zubrack was the high school coach of Paul Winder, also a sprinter. Sime and Winder are from New Jersey.

Jack Cuttle has been the golf professional at Pocono Manor for 36 years and he now feels he has learned the course.

Yesterday, while giving a playing lesson he scored his sixth hole-in-one at the Manor, acing the 144-yard, par three second hole. He used an eight iron.

Missed Second Ace On 18th Hole

The 61-year-old Cuttle, who never plays golf without a tie, narrowly missed another ace on 18. His ball rolled across the top of the cup and stopped 18 inches away. On the fourth hole Cuttle banged his 60-yard approach shot only two feet from the flag.

Cuttle has previously aced the third hole three times and the seven and 18th holes once each.

Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians will stage a concert before the All-Star game at Yankee Stadium today, with Della Reese, an RCA recording star, singing the National Anthem.

Then American League manager Al Lopez hopes his M-Squad, Maris, Mantle, Minoza and Malzone can play a few tunes against the Stadium walls.

Wilkinson's Son In Big-33 Game

Jay Wilkinson, son of the famed Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma University football coach, will be among the National Football High School All-Americans, who face Pennsylvania's Big 33 All-State club, July 30 at Hershey Stadium.

Young Wilkinson, a 6-1, 185-pound quarterback from Norman, Okla., was ranked as the top signal caller in the Sooner State.

Jay will by-pass Oklahoma and enter Duke University in September. His father will attend the game.

Penn State will seek its 22nd consecutive winning football season this fall.

The Nittany Lions last lost more grid games than they won in 1933, when the record was 3-4-1.

Only 50 Losses In 22 Years

Since jumping off on its winning streak in 1939, Penn State has recorded 129 triumphs, 50 defeats and eight ties.

Included in that record is a 13-13 tie with Southern Methodist, in the Cotton Bowl following a 9-1 campaign in 1947 and a 7-0 victory over Alabama in the 1959 Liberty Bowl after an 8-2 season.

Coach Rip Engle, at the helm since 1950, owns a 62-28-4 record. He'll begin his 11th campaign Sept. 17, when the Lions open their nine-game card against Boston University.

Track Meet At S-Burg Playground

STROUDSBURG Playground will hold a 10-event track meet for boys 12-years-old and younger today.

The events will be the 50 and 100-yard dash, obstacle race, bag race, standing and running broad jump, high jump, football, basketball and basketball throws.

Five points will be awarded to the winners of each event, with three points for second and one for third.

Entries Still Open

Twenty-three boys have entered the meet, which starts at 1 p.m. Entries are still being accepted by George Metropoulos, playground director.

The track meet for the 13 and 14-year-old boys will be held next Wednesday.

Other events scheduled at the playground include a bicycle race for both age groups on July 21, an overnight camp-out on Friday, July 29, a badminton tournament on July 27 and a softball game for the 14 and under age group with Camp Miller, Monday.

Top Battles Shaping Up At Nazareth

THE TORRID battle between the Lehigh stock car colony and drivers from Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey tracks will offer a new chapter on Thursday night 8:30 at the Nazareth Fair Grounds.

Each Thursday there has been a bitter fight on the one-half mile calcimazed track between top drivers like Russ Ahner, Del Hahn, Mike Muffley, Bob Bottcher, all from the upper Lehigh Valley area, and the regular "local" drivers like Herb Frenchko, George Dilworth, Neil Grover, Walt Smith, Bill Lallenburg, Charlie Sachs and two dozen others.

These drivers have strong challengers in pilots like Mario Andretti — last week's winner; Larry Bowers, Bob Robinson, George Stiegerwalt, Bob Wilke, Jack Kibbehouse and others.

25-Lap Feature

The Thursday show will have the usual fast qualifying heats, followed by the consolation, and the 25-lap wrap-up feature event.

The point battle is a toss-up between Mike Muffley, Russ Ahner and George Dilworth — all hot drivers who also appear at the Dorney Park speedway.

The pits will open for the drivers at 6 p.m., and there will be extended warmups before the actual show is scheduled to start. This will give many new drivers an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the fast speedway, on which the strictly stock cars are nearing the 29-second mark for one-half mile contention.

Crowd Of 45,000 Expected

Ford, Law Starting Choices In Second All-Star Game

NEW YORK (AP)—Vern Law of the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates and Whitey Ford of the first-place New York Yankees are the probable starting pitchers in Wednesday's 29th All-Star baseball game.

Although the expected New York temperature will be 82, or about 20 degrees cooler than the Kansas City oven where the Nationals scored a 5-3 victory Monday, it still will be hot and humid.

Yankee officials forecast a crowd of about 45,000 for the first All-Star game in Yankee Stadium since 1939.

Profits Into Plan

Gate receipts and the $250,000 radio-TV cash goes into a special fund out of which the player pension plan is supported.

Game time is noon (EST) with extensive network (NBC) radio and television coverage.

Manager Walter Alston of the Nationals could not be faulted for going to the Pittsburgh staff again after the success of Bob Friend, Elroy Face and right-handed Law (11-4 this season) in the first game. The three Pirates didn't allow a run and gave up only one hit in 5 1-3 innings.

After the first three innings, Wednesday, Alston is expected to turn to Larry Jackson of St. Louis (10-8) and possibly Stan Williams (8-2) of his own Los Angeles staff to finish up. He also has Lindy McDaniel of St. Louis (5-3) and Bill Henry of Cincinnati (1-4) for relief work plus those who pitched Monday.

To Protect Wall

Al Lopez, the Chicago White Sox skipper who is managing the

Whitey Ford... Starting Job

short right field fence, usually is most effective.

Ford probably will be followed by Early Wynn (4-7), 40-year-old Chicago right-hander, and Dick Stigman (4-4), Cleveland lefty. Lopez used all the others on his 10-man staff Monday except his own relief ace, Gerry Staley. However, that was changed later. All are eligible for both games.

Lopez said Ronnie Hansen, Baltimore's rookie shortstop, and Pete Runnels, Boston second baseman, both were ill Monday from the effects of the Kansas City heat. However, he said both would play Wednesday.

Lineups The Same

The starting lineups will remain the same under the rules of the game. The starters, except pitchers, must play at least the first three innings. A pitcher may not pitch more than three innings.

Lopez said he had not seen Vic Power, Cleveland first baseman, since the game. Power was the only man on the squad, except for four pitchers, who did not play in the opener. Lopez said Power had reported sick and left the bench without permission during the game and was not available when Lopez wanted him to replace first baseman Bill Skowron in the sixth inning.

Jim Enright in Chicago's American Tuesday quoted an unnamed Cleveland radio announcer as say-

Two Winners In Shawnee Guess Golf

MRS. M. STILES Baldwin and Mrs. Walter McClelland won the "Guess Your Score" tournament yesterday as the Shawnee Women's Golf Assn. played host to the Glen Brook Women.

Mrs. Baldwin correctly guessed her 112 score for the guest prize, while Mrs. McClelland won the Shawnee award with a 107.

The low gross Class A was an 89 posted by Mrs. Herbert Behrens, while Mrs. W. Cullen had the low gross Class B, a 96.

New Field Doesn't Help; Pocono Lake Beats Paradise

THE first game on the newly constructed Paradise Community Center Field was played last night, with Pocono Lake defeating Paradise 6-1 in a Babe Ruth tilt.

The home team had difficulty on the new grounds and only collected three bingles for a lone tally. The winners pounded out eleven hits.

Hamblin and Battisto hurred for the home team with Hamblin taking the loss. Murphy went all the way for the visitors.

Lead Attack

Big hitters for the Pocono nine were Hayes (3 for 4), Hanna (2 for 4) and Parry (4 for 4).

Five errors also hindered the Paradise squad.

Work was begun on the new diamond by the Community Center last April. The Willing Workers of Paradise, a group of local women, raised funds in order to purchase the site by holding bake sales and bazaars.

Rev. Karl Keller, of Evangelical United Brethren Koekee Chapel, made the dedication.

$1,000 Raised

The Willing Workers raised $1,000 and purchased the land. The Community Center took over and local people worked to get the site outfitted as a deadlocked 8 to 8 after seven innings. The game was called because of darkness and will be replayed next week.

Fireman Burned At Bangor Blaze

BANGOR—Fire which resulted in one fireman being burned was discovered in a huge dryer at the Blue Ridge Textile Co., Kline St., shortly after noon yesterday.

A quick response by the three fire companies in the borough were credited by company officials for averting a disastrous fire.

William D. Scott, general manager of the plant, said he was unable to explain how the blaze could have started. He said that all the machinery had been cleaned last week during a company vacation period.

Damage, according to Scott, has not yet been estimated. Most of the damage was to the cloth still in the machinery.

The company manufactures tricot and suede and William Winkler fabric. The company employs about 400 people.

A member of a Bangor fire department, Claude Fisher, Jr., was injured during the course of fighting the blaze. He suffered burns of the right hand and upper arm when water forced

Bombs Damage Pair Of Homes

GUATEMALA (AP) — Six bombs exploded in the Guatemalan capital city Monday night, damaging the homes of Ruben Flores Avendano, a deputy in Congress, and Dr. Ezequiel Sosa, a physician.

Bombs have been exploded almost nightly in Guatemala City since a wave of terrorism began a year ago.

burning oil to splash on him, according to fire department officials.

The company will continue operations. A force of men are presently working on the machinery to get it into working order.

Blue Shield Increase Under Further Attack

HARRISBURG (AP)—The United Steelworkers Union claimed Tuesday the Medical Assn. of Pennsylvania (Blue Shield) did not give attention to other alternatives before requesting a 12-million-dollar annual rate increase from the State Insurance Department.

The Blue Shield could have considered lowering fees paid its physicians and imposing more rigid controls on expenditures, claimed Dr. I. S. Falk, special consultant to the USW, at a public hearing on the big rate proposal.

The USW brought in Dr. Falk, Stonington, Conn., and Murray E. Lattimer, Washington, D.C., two veteran and nationally prominent specialists in the field, to carry its case against the increase. Both were identified with the New Deal era of Franklin D. Roosevelt—Falk with the Social Security Administration and Lattimer with the Railroad Retirement Board.

The public hearing in its second day turned to the rate increase after the Pennsylvania Medical Society declined to appear to discuss its role in formulating the Blue Shield's "senior citizens plan." The plan, providing medical coverage for the first time to persons 65 and older, was under heavy attack at the opening of the public hearing Monday.

Falk told the insurance board that the Blue Shield provided no evidence at all to support some 34 increases in physician's fees which are part of its rate request.

"The physicians of Pennsylvania—who are the recipients of the money collected by Blue Shield, control the policy of the organization," said Falk. A majority of the Blue Shield board of directors are physicians.

"As it is constituted today, the Blue Shield plan of Pennsylvania has given a signed, blank check to the medical profession," he said.

Lattimer, who brought a slide rule to the hearings which he used to follow involved mathematical explanations by the Blue Shield actuary, disputed calculations used by the association to justify its request.

Lattimer generally argued that these calculations were not based on realistic trends.

Frankenfield Rites Conducted

FUNERAL services for Dayton W. Frankenfield, 74, of 13 Morningside Ave., were held yesterday at 2 p.m. at the Dunkelberger & Westbrook Funeral Home. He died Saturday after having been in failing health for the past 12 years.

Frankenfield was a member of the United Church of Christ, Stroudsburg. Interment was in Stroudsburg Cemetery with Rev. Joseph Carr officiating. Pallbearers were: Harry W. Hoffman, J. Albert Groner, Klass Koopman, E. Holt Wyckoff, John R. Wilson and Walter D. Heckman.

Early this year Robert Groves and William Recesid, former Knox supervisory employees, were acquitted by a Luzerne County jury.

The conspiracy charge accuses the three of hiding Lippi's alleged past ownership in Knox and of depriving the Knox miners of their contractual rights under the UMW contract. Each of these two counts carries a maximum penalty of two years and a $500 fine.

The manslaughter charge says the defendants—as owners of Knox—failed to provide the proper safety precautions and thus were criminally negligent.
